2022 - Connection Pop Up Experiences

Webbing Urban Connections by Dahlin Group

The pop-up is comprised of two intersecting boards that form an “x” with a Seattle map illustrated in the center. The boards will have a series of questions, prompting festival-goers to write, draw, or model “connections.” Responses will also relate to a physical location that will tie into the map, highlighting Seattle’s different communities/neighborhoods from a local’s perspective.

Degrees of Separation by Seattle Happy Places

Engaging the public in creating chains of connection between meaningful places around our city. We will begin with key places or neighborhoods and invite people to write on paper links that will form paper chains across the map.

2022 - Connection Pop Up Experiences

Color Me Connected by Substantial
A paint-by-number pop-up experience created to foster human connections through creativity, fun, and self-expression. A canvas is present where paint-by-number pieces are decorated before being placed on the canvas.

Musical performance by 13 Rabbit

Sink or Sail: Toy Boat Challenge by Puget Sound Maritime
A paper boat-making exercise complete with a test sail in the model boat pond.

2021 - EMERGE Pop Up Experiences

Community Sculpture and Printmaking by Coyote Central

Coyote Central presented two pop-up experiences.

On Saturday they worked with visitors to create a community sculpture using hammers, drills, screws, clamps, wood-burning tools.

On Sunday they brought professional printmaking tools like linoleum cutters, ink, and brayers to create works of art that visitors could take home and share.
